The Church's Social Mission during the Covid-19 Pandemic

A resource for those looking to assist community members most at risk.

During this challenging period of time we are encouraged to lend our support to those within the Archdiocese of Brisbane who are the most vulnerable and at most risk.

To support these efforts, Evangelisation Brisbane has prepared a resource of community support networks available in the Brisbane region. We have compiled a list of organisations that parishioners can seek to access when looking for ways to support those most affected during the Covid-19 pandemic. Our list is not exhaustive - it will be updated periodically as the year progresses so that it remains current.

This is a time where our church doors are closed, but our hearts remain open to those in most need. Just as Jesus did when he walked with the disciples on the road to Emmaus, we are called to be on the road accompanying people in the midst of their struggles and anxiety, and offering them hope.

If you require more information on this resource please contact Peter Arndt (Executive Officer, Catholic Justice and Peace Commission Brisbane) on cjpc@bne.catholic.net.au.
