

Archdiocesan Summit

Promotional Video Transcript

Parishioner 1:

I have hope that people will find a home in our Church, that it will be a place of community, a place for help and connection.

Parishioner 2:

I have hope that our Church will be the light of Christ to the world and shine in the darkest places.

Parishioner 3:

I know that our Church can be a place where people meet God and are transformed.

Archbishop Mark Coleridge:

Pope Francis has said that this is not so much an era of change, but a change of era, and that's certainly true. One sign of that in this country has been the Plenary Council, which was the gift of God and the work of the Holy Spirit. Now the Plenary Council was always going to have three phases: preparation, celebration, and implementation. And we are in that third phase right now, the phase of implementation. Now part of that will be what we are calling the Archdiocesan Summit. We are at a point where we can't just wait for the future to fall into our lap. We have to listen to God in order to shape the kind of future together that God wants. So this Summit is for everybody, everyone who belongs to the household of God, the community of the baptised in Brisbane.

On the 18th to the 20th of May, 2023. I will see you there.

Be part of the hope for the future of our Church.
